Hanoi Accepts Bid for Talks; Camp David Conference Called

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, announcing North Vietnam's formal acceptance of his bid for talks on Vietnam, summoned his top advisers to a Camp David breakfast conference Tuesday to determine the next move.

An atmosphere of hard bargaining appeared to be forming Monday as both Washington and Hanoi considered suitable sites for initial contacts and possibly later political negotiations. U.S. authorities who took part in the 14-nation Geneva Conference in 1962, which guaranteed the neutrality of Laos, said that its communication facilities and accommodations make it the logical choice for any full-scale Vietnam talks.

Hanoi Radio, quoting an interview between Foreign Minister Nguyen Duy Trinh and CBS correspondent Charles Collingwood, said the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh should be the site.

U.S. officials said Phnom Penh could not handle the communications requirements that could arise if there were more than 200 newsmen and delegations of 20 to 25 from each of 14 countries attending a full-scale conference.

Johnson was unsmiling and terse when he called newsmen into the White House Cabinet Room and told them he had received a message from Hanoi, dated April 3, responding to his invitation.

He said he will be flying to Camp David, the presidential retreat in the Catoctin Mountains of Maryland where President Franklin D. Roosevelt held World War II talks. It was known in the Roosevelt era as "Shangri-la," after the fictional city in the clouds of the Himalaya mountains.

Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, flying in from Saigon early Tuesday morning, will be joined by Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford for the Camp David talks, he said.

Death Penalty Removed From Kidnaping Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court took the death penalty out of the Lindbergh kidnaping law Monday.

A 6-2 decision read by Justice Potter Stewart said the provision put an "impermissible burden" on the right to a trial by jury.

Other provisions of the 1932 law, enacted in response to the kidnapping of the infant son of the pioneering air hero Charles A. Lindbergh, were left intact. The law was written to give the federal government a way to step in on kidnappings.

"The infirmity of the death penalty clause does not require the total frustration of Congress' basic purpose—that of making interstate kidnaping a federal crime," Stewart said.

The death penalty clause was added to the law in 1933. It specified that a convicted kidnaper who had not liberated his victim unharmed could be put to death, but only on a jury's recommendation.

The death penalty provision, Stewart said, encourages defendants to plead guilty, to avoid risking the death penalty, and thus give up their right to a jury trial.

For this reason, he said, it is "patently unconstitutional."

In another ruling, the court said the 1964 federal civil rights law does not bar criminal conspiracy prosecution of "hoodlums" who attack Negroes using public facilities.

King's Widow And Children Lead March in Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Beneath a spring sky of somber gray, row on row of marchers paraded through Memphis Monday, in silent, grieving remembrance of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. His widow and three of his four children clasped hands to lead the ranks.

"I came to you today because I was compelled... I felt he would have wanted me to be here," Mrs. Coretta King told the marchers when they arrived at their destination, the city's marble and starkly modern City Hall.

Appearing fatigued, and fighting a head cold, Mrs. King declared of her husband, a Nobel Peace Prize winner: "I can say he was a great man, a great father and a great husband. We loved him dearly, his children loved him dearly and we know his spirit will never die..."

"But then I ask this question: How many men must die before we can have freedom and peace and truth in this society?"

On occasion a light drizzle fell upon the line of marchers—many of them smartly dressed, others in the humble working garb of field and mill. About 30 per cent were white.

Police Director Frank Holloman estimated their number at more than 6,000. A newsman counting the eight-abreast lines arrived at a figure of 12,500.

On the sidewalks, hundreds of onlookers jostled for a glimpse of Mrs. King, repeating "That's her, that's her."

The widow marched at times with half-closed eyes. Her lips appeared fixed in a slightly nervous half smile. Her children glanced from side to side at the crowd.

The eldest child, Yolanda, 12, was dressed in pink. Her two brothers, Martin III, 10, and Dexter, 6, wore sports coats with ties.

The King family, save only its youngest member, Bernice, 4, flew here from Atlanta for the march. They were to return to Atlanta for funeral services there Tuesday for King, who was slain here last Thursday by a sniper's bullet.

"I've got my three children with me—thats," said Mrs. King.

From a platform in front of City Hall, Mrs. King in an even voice told the crowd: "I come to you today because I was compelled. During my husband's lifetime I have always been at his side when I felt he needed me. And so today I felt he would have wanted me to be here."

The entire state of Delaware was declared under a state of emergency Monday night as roaming Negro gangs spread a rash of looting and firebombing in a four-block area of Wilmington.

The new troop assignments pushed the nationwide deployment of soldiers and National Guardsmen to 57,500, apparently the largest such force ever turned out for a civil emergency in the United States.

In Cincinnati, police said an autoist was stabbed to death by eight young Negroes—three of them girls—after they pulled him from his car. His wife was beaten, too, but her injuries were not serious.

The incident near a Negro district culminated a series of fires and looting that followed a memorial service to the Negro apostle of nonviolence.

At least 28 men, all but four Negroes, have been killed in five days of rioting in dozens of cities. More than 1,500 have been injured and more than 10,000 arrested.

The death toll included 11 in Chicago, six in Washington, five in Baltimore, two in the Detroit area, and one each in Cincinnati, Minneapolis, Memphis and Tallahassee, Fla.

BOAC said an engine of the same plane caught fire on take off from Honolulu on a flight to Tokyo late last year. The plane was stopped before it left the ground and there were no casualties.

Sir Giles Guthrie, chairman of the government-owned airline, said the company would conduct its own investigation in addition to the government inquiry.

Warren County Education Association (WCEA) a group representing the county's teachers Monday night presented school district directors with a completed package of salary proposals.

The main part of the package—starting pay of $5,600—had been proposed in December. Monday night's proposals included new figures for supplemental pay.

The supplemental pay proposals cover a variety of extracurricular activities that teachers help with. Athletic activities, chaperoning, bus loading, yearbook and newspaper work, play production, and musical activities are included.

The WCEA proposals would more than double the present total of supplemental pay.

The 1967-68 total of supplemental pay in the county school district is $34,115; the cost of the proposed schedule is estimated at $77,800.

The requested starting pay of $5,600 is $500 above the present starting pay. Paul Myers, WCEA liaison committee chairman said Monday that if the state should mandate a minimum starting pay level higher than $5,100 the WCEA would request a level $500 above the state minimum. In other words if the state says teachers must get at least $5,400 the WCEA will request at least $5,900. Minimum starting pay figures are currently being considered by the state legislature.

Senate Urges Passage Of Open Housing Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders called Monday for prompt House passage of the civil rights open housing bill, and said this should be followed by a cooling-off period after last weekend's racial disorders.

House backers of the Senate-passed civil rights measure appeared confident they can carry through plans to complete congressional action Wednesday.

Plans for President Johnson to address a joint session of Congress were suspended indefinitely.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, declaring Congress should not act impetuously, told the Senate that "laws and appropriations alone are not the answer to urban unrest."

He said part of the answer lies in private industry assuming greater responsibility.

"We ought to let Congress face up to its responsibilities, and perhaps give the members a chance to go home and talk to the people," he said.

"I don't think we ought to rush into a joint session," Mansfield told newsmen shortly before the Senate met.

The majority leader said that if Johnson addresses a joint session at all, it may be after an

Tidioute Council Hears Summer Recreation Plans

Tidioute Council met in council chambers Monday night to discuss the summer recreation program, with members electing Harold Guthrie, chairman of the Recreation Commission and Fred Barr being appointed council representative to the Commission.

Other business conducted at the routine meeting called to order by Council Chairman William R. Robinson included an affirmative vote by council to purchase as borough land the property presently owned by Pennsylvania Railroad Co. where the railroad depot is located.

Councilman Harold Conkle reported on public utilities, and Ernie Moore, owner of the television cable in Tidioute, was granted permission by council to purchase three utility poles along the Main st., presently owned by the telephone company.

The meeting adjourned with council voting to pay acquired bills amounting to $4896.44.

Area Man Is Injured

A 50-year old Sugar Grove man was injured in a one car accident in the borough of Sugar Grove on the Sugar Grove-Busti road Monday, according to state police of the local substation.

Floyd H. West, RDI, Sugar Grove was admitted to Warren General Hospital with a broken leg and lacerations of the face, police said, after the car was operating crashed into a bridge abutment head on.

According to trooper Edward Schaffer, West was alone in the car traveling west on the Sugar Grove-Busti rd. West apparently fell asleep at the wheel, trooper Schaffer stated. The 1968 Pontiac West was operating was a total loss, according to trooper Schaffer, who estimated the damage in the 10:20 p.m. accident at $4,000.

According to hospital officials, West was considered to be in fair condition and was scheduled to undergo surgery. An accident at the intersection of Market and Fifth streets caused an estimated $550 damage Monday, according to borough police.

The accident occurred at 7:20 p.m. police said when a car operated by Donald E. Anderson, 26, 503 Conewango ave., traveling east on Fifth st. collided with a car operated by William L. Smathers, 50, RDI Grand Valley, traveling south on Market st.

According to police, both drivers claim the right of way and no charges have been filed in the mishap which caused an estimated $400 damage to the Anderson vehicle and $150 damage to the Smathers' vehicle.

A passenger in the Smathers car, Mrs. Eva Smathers, wife of the driver, allegedly suffered bruises and abrasions in the mishap but refused treatment, according to police.

Jamestown Council Okays Employees' Wage Contracts

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — Jamestown's City Council Monday night heard grim warnings of possible bankruptcy for the city before they approved wage contracts for two groups of city employees. The two contracts to receive approval of council were with the police departments, Kendall Club and the Jamestown General Hospital Nurses Association.

Action on a third agreement for certain city employees represented by the Jamestown Civil Service Employees Association was tabled by the GOP City Council.

The new contract with the Kendall Club will cost city taxpayers an additional $45,000 over normal wage increments, according to Robert K. Sharpe, associate corporation counsel. Sharpe also stated the contract approved with the nurses' association calls for an additional $75,000 in salaries. The combined wage contracts will cost city taxpayers an increase of approximately $1,75 per $1,000 assessed valuation. In addition to an unsigned contract with CSEA, negotiation is also continuing between the City Council's Personnel Committee and the fire dept's Morton Club.

Only third ward councilman Joseph Anzalone voted against the new wage contracts. Anzalone said he favored all of the provisions included in the new contracts, but said he felt the dire financial condition of the city should be realized more fully prior to the signing of the contracts. Councilman James Whitmore and Warren Erickson also voiced serious concern over what they called "the possible bankruptcy of the city." Erickson said the two new wage agreements will nearly wipe out the $133,700 contingency fund leaving no money at all for emergency.

The contracts for the police and nurses were retroactive from Feb. 1 and will continue through Dec. 31 of this year. Under the terms of the new contract, policemen will receive a 10 percent pay hike or a double increment under the Jacobs salary study. Patrolmen will now start at $5,900 and will receive a maximum salary of $7,596. Sick leave benefits were also increased and the 11 paid holidays already received were retained as was the hospital insurance plan.

The nurses' contract contained many of the same general benefits such as sickleave and hospital insurance. Among other things it gave nurses aides a 20 cent per hour pay raise and boosted pay for licensed practical nurses by 10 percent to bring the starting salary from $1.85 per hour to $2.03 per hour. The starting salary for licensed practical nurses will now be $3,248 annually. Professional nurses will get a 10 per cent pay raise from $2.50 to $2.72 to start making the beginning salary at Jamestown General Hospital $5,400 per year. Senior and principal nurses will receive an eight per cent pay raise.

Weekend Violence May Not Hurt Economy Much

WASHINGTON (AP) — Except for such segments as insurance companies and retail stores in the looted areas, the nation's economy stands to suffer little in the long run from the weekend's racial violence, in the view of some government economists.

"I'll raise hell for insurance companies," one source stated. But the Internal Revenue Service said that money paid out by insurance companies to cover damage from racial violence can be deducted for tax purposes as a business expense.

Consumer spending obviously dropped off over the weekend as stores in Washington and other major cities closed their doors on a pre-Easter Saturday which would probably have been the heaviest sales day so far this year.

But one economist said the statistics published in the future will reveal no trace of any trouble this past weekend as far as the economy in general is concerned.

One of the biggest economic impacts to be expected, he added, is from the catalytic effect on cities' spending for anti-poverty, urban renewal, civil rights and transportation programs now badly hobbled.

Government sources don't expect any specific request from the administration for a tax increase in excess of the 10 per cent surcharge submitted to Congress last August but they don't close the door completely to the possibility.

"The chances are pretty close to zero but I don't rule it out," one said.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler said recently that a surcharge of at least 10 per cent is now needed.

No exact estimate of damages in Washington and other cities has yet been assessed but it will certainly run far into the millions. Preliminary insurance company estimates for the capital are in the neighborhood of $10 million.

IRS said it's too early to tell how much money the federal government might lose in lower tax payments by insurance companies because of the violence since no real over-all estimate of the insurance-covered loss is available.

Economists said some of the lost retail sales stemming from the violence never will be recouped—such as beverage and food and other goods bought for immediate consumption. But they expect sales of other products such as clothing and hard goods to be made up later, in large part.

One economist noted that many jobs were lost in Negro areas because of the violence but the lost income in the broadest sense will be balanced somewhat by the overtime pay received by police, firemen, and others forced to work over the weekend.

State Issues Guidelines For Desegregation of Schools

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Pennsylvania Human Relations Commission on Monday issued desegregation guidelines for the 17 school districts named last February as having serious problems of racial imbalance. The 17 districts have been ordered by the commission to submit desegregation plans by July 1.

The guidelines, issued by the commission and the Department of Public Instruction, said that every school building, as much as possible, should reflect a cross section of the community in its enrollment.

"The presence in a single school of children from varied backgrounds is an important element in the preparation of young people for active participation in the social and political affairs of our democracy," the guidelines said.

The guidelines said that segregation is not simply an arbitrary numerical relationship of one group to another. Rather, they added, a school system is adversely affected by segregation when any one public school building comes to be viewed as being reserved for certain community groups.

The local districts also were urged to develop a racially inclusive staff at all professional, nonprofessional and administrative levels.

"A desegregated staff affords positive education values," the guidelines said. "All children need real models with whose ethnic backgrounds they can identify, and they also need to be taught at times by those who are racially different."

Desegregation of schools is a local responsibility, the guidelines said. Such a policy they added, allow for the widest innovation in school assignment and program to meet local needs.

The previously announced districts that must desegregate certain schools:

Allegheny—Clarion, McKeesport Area, Penn Hills Township, Pittsburgh, Wilkesburg; Beaver — Aliquippa; Chester — Coatesville Area; Dauphin — Harrisburg, Susquehanna Township; Delaware — Chester Township, Darby Township, Delaware County Board.

Erie—Erie City; Mercer—Farrell Area; Montgomery — Norristown Area; Philadelphia: Washington—Washing City.

Two Mishaps Investigated Sun. By State Police

State police of the Warren substation recorded two traffic accidents Sunday afternoon.

At 4:30 p.m., Trooper William C. Dudinack went to the scene of a two-car mishap on Scandia road at the Hatch Run road intersection.

Police said a car driven by Lee Elliott Bryan, 17, of 1011 Conewango ave., Warren, while attempting to overtake and pass a car operated by Steven John Zwald, 18, of 1407 Pennsylvania ave. E., struck the latter as it started to make a left turn onto Hatch Run.

Total damage was estimated at $450.

There were no injuries.

The second accident occurred at 3:10 p.m. Sunday on Route 59 at Kinzua Dam.

Trooper Dennis Hoak reported that a station wagon operated by Lloyd Bowersox, North Warren, traveling east, arrived at the dam, drove to the south berm and attempted a left turn. Police said the Bowersox vehicle was struck on the passenger side by an eastbound car driven by Henry G. Smith, 4628 Perkins st., Erie, in the process of passing the former.

Total damage was listed at $375.

More National Guardsmen Ordered Out in Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Vandals hit new sections of Pittsburgh Monday and 650 more National Guardsmen were ordered onto the streets to stop the looting and arson.

A rag company, two vacant homes and a lumber yard were set afire. Gangs threw rocks at police, troops and passing cars.

A big supermarket was stripped by looters. Weary police stayed busy chasing them out of smaller stores. Windows were smashed at liquor stores, groceries and bars.

A few restaurants remained open in defiance of the 7 p.m. curfew but police didn't seem to be strictly enforcing the clamp down. No crowds could be seen on the streets although a few sat in their doorways watching police and soldiers go by.

Gov. Raymond Shafer, who declared a state of emergency Sunday, flew into Pittsburgh to tour the streets. But the trouble got so serious that he decided against it after talking with city and National Guard officials.

The extra troops meant about 2,000 soldiers were on the streets, with another 1,000 in reserve. Some 1,400 city police and 200 state troopers also worked to end the violence.

More than 600 people have been arrested. More than 300 fires have been set.

The booming Hill District, where most of the violence was concentrated for the first three days, was relatively quiet Monday.

But the trouble spread to Homewood, Brainerd, East Liberty and the North Side during the late afternoon. Police reported looters at more than a dozen bars, supermarkets and dime stores.

They also chased carloads of armed toughs and gangs with firebombs.

However, there were still no confirmed reports of gunfire. Shafer said he was ordering two more platoons of state police, 200 men, into the city. He also said:

"I talked to the President and the attorney general and they have troops practically ready to come to Pennsylvania if they are needed."

He would not say where the men are, nor how many there are. Asked what was the possibility they might be called out, he said, "I hope never."

A curfew at 7 p.m. to 5 a.m. was enforced "where possible" and a state of emergency will last through Thursday.

Shafer said there was evidence of shoplifting looting in the city but he would not go into detail. He said he generally believed the situation was under control.

Shafer denied at a news conference that he had planned to tour the Hill.

However, a contingent of National Guardsmen also accompanied him when he went to the Hill. A tour would be made.

"My purpose in coming here was to get first hand reports on the situation," Shafer said. "We believe the situation is under control. We know that anything can happen so we are calling on all citizens to do everything they can do to maintain order under law."

Eight of the 10 communities surrounding Pittsburgh were also put on curfews. Bars were also closed.

Contribution to State

Now that Pennsylvania has dedicated its 1000th tree farm, it is time to realize that this form of agriculture contributes a huge amount of raw materials for over 2,000 firms in the state that use wood in producing their products. Over 17 millions acres of forest covered land owned by individuals and corporations presently grow the valuable second-growth timber, with most of it subject to intensive management practices on a sustained yield basis.

The Tree Farm program, started some forty years ago, is primarily directed to helping the small landowner establish on his lands the same advanced management practices as those employed by the professional foresters of the large industrial owners. And, with the establishment of the 1000th tree farm the amount of land enrolled in the program has climbed to close to a half-million acres.

By cooperating in this program, the small landowner can take his place to actively participate in efforts to protect forests from fire, grazing, insects and disease.

But to a great extent, the tree farmers of the state play another important role as contributors to our overall economy. As tree farm members they permit "multiple use" of their lands, thereby opening them to the recreationist for all kinds of outdoor activities. It is a readily admissible fact that it is the use of these lands, and the lands of the larger industrial owners, for recreational purposes that provides millions of our citizens with places to enjoy the great open spaces.

Warren County ranks high in the membership of the Tree Farm organization. While no actual count of county members is available, the number of "tree farm" signs spotted along our county roads attests to the fact that the number is considerable. And as we drive forward in establishing our potential for a profitable "tourist" economy in the county there is every reason to hope that there will be more and more of them.

Producing lumber for our industries, paying taxes to our county government, and providing a wealth of wooded recreation lands for public use establishes the tree farmer as a worthy citizen. It is time to recognize this fact and make up our minds that when we trespass on his domain we will treat the lands as if they were our own.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Sir:

On Friday, April 5, in an editorial entitled "Friendly Town Project," you very briefly described the program to provide a ten day vacation to underprivileged, inner city children of Cleveland. In addition to presenting the basic facts of how the program operates, you questioned the values of such an idea as this, on the grounds that the child may suffer heartbreak and resentment when he returns home.

You also indicated that you were not disapproving of Friendly Town, and that you hoped that the contrast between the child's environment and that of Warren would not be too sharp for the child to understand.

After being a Friendly Town Host last year, we found your negative approach extremely disheartening. To properly judge the success of such a venture as this, would require considerable time interviewing some of these impoverished children, their parents and some of the hundreds of volunteer workers, doctors and others who make this program possible.

If, as we suspect, you did not do this, it hardly seems fair for you to publicly question the program. Unfortunately, the fact remains that some of your readers may accept your judgment and thereby deprive an underprivileged child the opportunity to learn that there is a better way of life and that it is attainable.

SYLVIA PORTER

Last Friday, a few hours after the appearance of your editorial, we received a letter from the mother of the Friendly Town Child who visited in our home last year. It was almost as if she were answering your questions.

"It is agonizing to me to send the poor little things off to total strangers for ten days. But I cannot and I must not deprive them of anything they can have as I have so little to give them and they must learn that other people can and do live differently so that they'll know to aim differently when they have the chance to plan their lives."

"If only my little girls will learn of such people as you and your way of life so that they may aim for the same."

"It is wonderful to me that my child will be going to you this year with great delight and I'll know where she is and with who."

The above are only small portions of a heart-warming ten page letter which is evidence of the importance of this program to one family. Further indication that need exists for people of different backgrounds to communicate is the fact that Friendly Town began 91 years ago and now consists of 13 Friendly Towns covering 27 states.

It should also be noted that sharing one's home with one of these children, is a rare educational experience for the host family.

If either you or any of your readers would like more information about this program, we strongly suggest you contact Mrs. Donald Davis who can supply various types of literature which will thoroughly explain Friendly Town.

Our Economy--Minus Vietnam

Q. What would our economy look like minus the escalated Vietnam war?

A. It would look a lot like it did before the Vietnam war buildup started in mid-1965, with the unwelcome addition of a package of problems inherited directly from the Southeast Asia venture.

While the specific answers to the above question could admittedly be a long time in the making, the day finally appears to have come when we can at least take the question out of wraps and ponder it. Let us, therefore, get two vital points straight right now and notor an instant lose sight of either of them.

First, peace would be bull's overall, in that it would help erase destructive pressures from our economy, would permit us to get our priorities back into some intelligent order and would let us go to work on the urgent challenges which most inspire us.

This is what Wall Street has been emphasizing so dramatically since President Johnson's de-escalation announcement. In effect, the stock and bond upsurge says: "Industry and finance give the lie to the theory that U.S. prosperity feeds on war. The Vietnam war has destroyed materials and money as well as manpower. It has smeared rather than sustained our prosperity. The quicker we get rid of this war, the quicker we can get rid of detested restraints and get back to profitable planning and investing. The Wall Street "message" signals the achievement of a new high level of economic maturity in the U.S.

But the second point is that just because we have been at war, a return to peace would bring major economic challenges. Removal of the intense pressures would open up some economic vacuums. What's more, the spending cutbacks would have an uneven impact on industries, areas and manpower across the nation. As one obvious illustration, corporations and workers in the aircraft industry in Southern California and in the electronics complex along Route 128 in Massachusetts would feel the end of hostilities far more than corporations and workers in service industries in New York City.

This second point makes it imperative that we adopt in time the tax-spending-credit policies which would smooth the transition back to a pre-1966 economy.

To be more specific about our economy's post-Vietnam "look":

The rise in our cost of living would fall back into a range we have learned to accept—under 3 per cent and perhaps even back to 2 per cent. With the cost of services climbing so relentlessly, we could not expect much better than this.

Even assuming military cutbacks are stretched out over an 18-month period and one-quarter to one-third of the discharged veterans go back to school, an increase in the unemployment rate to the 4½-5 per cent range would be probable.

Interest rates would retreat to more tolerable levels, the availability of credit would expand, and we'd be on our way to a new and great housing construction boom.

Business spending for inventories would be slower but business spending for new plants and equipment might increase to offset this. Consumer spending would continue rising and so would government spending, particularly at the state and local level.

The result would be a continued growth in our total size, our Gross National Product. But our objective would become keeping the annual rate of growth up to 4½ per cent rather than holding it down to 4½ per cent. (No point in befuddling this with specific dollar totals because these would depend on when the cease-fire actually occurs.)

On the charts, our post-Vietnam economy might show a leveling off or even a dip, but this would simply reflect the shift from a feverishly unhealthy upsurge to an orderly healthy advance. We would again be faced with the type of problems we have developed the wisdom and know-how to handle. This is the way it was before mid-1965. This is the way it would be.

ART BUCHWALD

Visit The USA

WASHINGTON—Dear Visitor From Abroad, This is your invitation to visit the USA in 1968, otherwise known as The Land of Bonnie and Clyde.

To make it easier for you, we will answer some of the questions that foreign tourists keep asking us.

Buchwald

Is it dangerous to visit the United States? Of course not. Americans are a gentle people who abhor violence. What little there is can be seen on television or in the movies—every night. We have cowboy films, cops and robbers pictures and children's cartoons. If that isn't your cup of tea you can tune in on one of our news shows. We not only show people being killed, but villages being burned, GIs being wounded, enemies being tortured or anything else that suits your fancy. Of course, these shows have no effect on Americans because they know it has nothing to do with them.

What should I wear? American fashions this year are all modeled after the Bonnie and Clyde look, and everyone wants to dress like a gangster. This trend is tongue in cheek, because everyone knows we don't admire gangsters, even though we all consider Bonnie and Clyde a gas.

What can I buy in the United States that I can't buy in my own country?

Guns, for one thing. We have no laws about buying guns. You don't even have to go to a store. You can order them by mail from newspapers and magazines.

You can buy shotguns, rifles, hand guns, pistols, revolvers and practically any kind of weapon you want. Of course, we only use guns in the United States for hunting. That's why the American Congress in its infinite wisdom won't pass any gun control laws. They know anyone who would order a gun by mail or buy one in a store would never use it except to shoot game.

What about visiting American cities?

It's perfectly safe to visit any American city in the country, providing you don't go out after dark or during certain parts of the day. The best thing is to ask your hotel clerk at the desk. He'll indicate what streets are safe and when you can visit them. Americans pride themselves on law and order and would never do anything to disturb the peace.

When is the best time to come?

Any time is a good time to visit the United States, with the possible exception of the long hot summer which starts in the middle of March and goes through October. At this time people are irritable and not as friendly toward tourists as they might be at Christmas time.

Where can I see the President?

You can see the White House, but the President, for security reasons, doesn't make many public appearances any more—at least none that are announced in advance. No other American officials are free to travel, either. But as tourists, this shouldn't bother you. After all, you have a foreign passport.

I hope this answers most of your questions. So forget your cares and see Americans at work and at play. Watch a truly civilized democracy in action and meet a people who love each other and live in harmony.

See for yourself why the United States is the leader of the Free World and an example to everyone of what you can do when you have understanding, wealth and power.

Visit the USA.

IN BRIEF

DUBOIS, Pa. (AP)—The Du Bois Courier Express printed a 14-word editorial Monday. It said: "Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was a credit to his race—the human race."

'A SHOT? DID I HEAR A SHOT?'

PEARSON & ANDERSON

Dr. King and Mahatma Gandhi

WASHINGTON—During the summer of 1964, Dr. Martin Luther King came to my home to discuss the civil rights troubles in Mississippi and the question of solving them through a peaceful economic boycott. We talked of the tactics of Mahatma Gandhi, who had helped bring independence to India.

In many ways, King reminded me of Gandhi. The similarity seems even greater today.

I had gone to Gandhi's jail in Poona, during one of his frequent incarcerations by the British government because he was urging a boycott against British goods. Lord Lloyd refused to let me in. He talked with mingled criticism and respect about the "spindly-legged, little pain-in-the-neck to the British Empire."

That spindly-legged little man was assassinated in 1948 by a Hindu fanatic. But he had already won his great goal—Independence for India.

Martin Luther King, another staunch believer in nonviolence, will probably win more as a result of his violent death than he could have achieved in life.

He had been considered too reasonable, too pacific, by young Negro radicals. And just as the British aristocracy considered Gandhi a pain in the neck, so the Southern white establishment considered Martin Luther King.

They tolerated him, as a pacifist, misguided trouble-maker, not realizing that the Negro revolution was moving much faster than King himself—so fast that he could not keep it under control.

King's death in the eyes of Negroes, culminates a long history of Southern violence in which they have been on the receiving end. There was the lynching of the young Chicago Negro, Emmett Till, in Mississippi in 1955; the shooting of Lt. Col. Lemuel Penn, the Washington, D.C. Negro reserve officer en route from training in Georgia in 1964; the murder of Mrs. Viola Liuzzo, while driving Negro members of the Selma march in 1965; the killing of three civil rights workers in Philadelphia, Miss., by members of the sheriff's office; the bombing of 20 homes and churches in McComb, Miss., in the summer of 1964; and the shooting from ambush of Medgar Evers, the NAACP leader in Jackson, Miss.

Those responsible for these murders went unpunished. And Byron de la Beckwith, twice tried for the murder of Evers and twice getting off with hung juries, actually ran for Lieutenant governor of Mississippi and received a sizable vote.

Recently there have been healthy improvements in the Negro's status in the South.

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR.

Martin Luther King, R.I.P.

It is curious and melancholy that hours after the death of the Reverend Martin Luther King, and one hundred thousand words after the doleful announcement of his murder, not a single commentator on television has mentioned what one would suppose is a critical datum, namely that Mr. King was an ordained minister in the Christian faith, and that those who believe that the ministry is other than merely symbolic servitude to God, must hope and pray that he is today happier than he was yesterday, united with his Maker, with the angels and the saints, with the prophets whose words of inspiration he quoted with such telling effect in his hot pursuit of a secular millennium.

Those who take seriously Dr. King's calling are obliged above all to comment on this aspect of his martyrdom, and to rejoice in the divine warranty that eyes have not seen, nor have ears heard of, the glories that God has prepared for those who love Him.

No, it is the secular aspects of his death that obsess us; very well then, let us in his memory make a few observations:

Whatever his virtues, and whatever his faults, he did not deserve assassination. There are the special few—one thinks of Joan of Arc—whose career dictates, as a matter of theatrical necessity, a violent end, early in life. Dr. King was not of that cast. His virtues were considerable, most notably his extraordinary capacity to inspire. But although the dream he had seemed to many Americans, particularly the black militants, but not excluding many orthodox liberals, less and less useful (freedom now, in the sense he understood it, WAS a dream, mischievously deceptive) it simply wasn't ever required that, in order to rely that vision, he should surrender his own life. In that sense his martyrdom was simply not useful. Because it is plainly impossible that, on account of his death, things are going to change. The martyrdom he seemed sometimes almost to be seeking may commend him to history and to God, but not likely to Scarsdale, New York; which has never credited the charge that the white community of America conspires to insure the wretchedness of the brothers of Martin Luther King.

2. And concerning his weaknesses, it would take a lunatic (his murderer has not at this point been apprehended, but he is sure to be one) to reason that Dr. King's faults justified a private assassination. The theory to which most of us subscribe is that there is no vice so hideous as to justify private murder. Even so, we tend emotionally to waive that categorical imperative every now and then. If someone had shot down Adolf Eichmann in a motel, the chances are that our deploring of the assassin's means would have been ritualistic. The only people who were genuinely annoyed by Jack Ruby's assassination of Lee Harvey Oswald were those who maintained a fastidious interest in the survival of Oswald, for the sake of the record.

Dr. King's faults, and they most surely existed, were far from the category of the faults of those whose assassination is more or less tolerated, as we all of us more or less tolerated the assassination of George Lincoln Rockwell. Those faults were a terribly mistaken judgment—above all. A year ago he accused the United States of committing crimes equal in horror to those committed by the Nazis in Germany. One could only gasp at the profanation. Ten days ago in his penultimate speech, delivered at the Washington Cathedral, he accused the United States of waging ing a war as indefensible as any war committed during the 20th century. Several years ago, on the way back from Stockholm where he received the Nobel Peace Prize, he conspicuously declined to criticize the Gbonye movement in the North Congo, which was even then engaged in slaughtering, as brutally as Dr. King was slaughtered, his brothers in Christ. But for such transgressions in logic and in judgment, one does not receive the death sentence.

3. The sickening observation of the commentators is therefore particularly inapposite. The commentators (most of them) said: How can we now defend non-violence? Surely the answer is: more perferdly than ever before. It was, need we remark, violence that killed Dr. King. Should we therefore abandon non-violence?

Those who mourn Dr. King because they were his closest followers should meditate the implications of the deed of the wildman who killed him. That deed should bring to mind not (for God's sake) the irrelevance of non-violence, but the sternest necessity of reaffirming non-violence. An aspect of non-violence is subjugation to the law.

The last public speech of Martin Luther King described his intentions of violating the law in Memphis, where an injunction had been handed down against the resumption of a march which only a week ago had resulted in the death of one human being, and the wounding of fifty others.

Dr. King's flouting of the law does not justify the flouting of others of the law, but it is a terrifying thought that, most likely, the cretin who leveled his rifle on the head of Martin Luther King, may have absorbed the talk, so freely available, about the supremacy of the individual conscience, such talk as Martin Luther King, God rest his troubled soul, had so widely, and so indiscriminately made.

MASON DENISON

On Firing Line

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania's lawmakers may well find themselves spending more time on the firing line this year than in many a political moon.

It is true there is one of those overriding presidential elections in this year 1968 along with a spate of national offices including congressional seats, a U. S. senatorial post and two statewide fiscal offices, all of which usually tend to overshadow local legislative scraps.

However indications point to the almost inescapable fact that the overshadowing this year is not destined to hold to the proportions of yesterday.

Too much is at issue, too much is controversial, and too much has happened of critical local import for Pennsylvania's legislative offices to ride the full backwash this year.

For example, there is the inescapable fact that Pennsylvania's hardy band of taxpayers had their pockets picked by lawmakers last year to the tune of better than a quarter-billion dollars in new taxes—a smashing success from the standpoint that the pocket-picking represented a record high (along with another smashing success in adopting a record high budget a fiscal year under the two-billion-dollar mark).

With all 203 seats in the House of Representatives up for filling this year along with half the 50 chairs in the Senate, the opportunity for Pennsylvania's taxpaying voters to vent their overwhelming joy in the direction of re-election-seeking lawmakers is obvious.

Usually the antics of Pennsylvania's legislative brethren are forgotten by the time "their" election year rolls around. It was planned that way for this year (which is why the big bundle was given the push last year amid the projection of "no new taxes" this election year).

The strategy of course revolves around the contention that voters usually tend to forget what happens from one year to the next, which nominally is the case, but the buffeting of the past year is still recalled to most Pennsylvanians every time they pay the six percent sales tax, now the highest in the land.

However in reaching this pinnacle on the tax front, it is evident Pennsylvania's lawmakers still are not fully satisfied, with discussions even in this election year revolving around the prospect of presenting Pennsylvanians with a state income tax.

Thus from this side of the picture alone local lawmakers should well find themselves on the firing line as they go about the task of urging their constituency to return them to Capitol Hill for another term.

The teacher pay flare-up is another irritating and embarrassing volley of fire that has been sent lawmakers' way in this campaign year 1968.

The Pennsylvania State Education Association with its teacher membership of some 82,000 in this election year is not about to let Pennsylvania's legislative greys go scot-free by any stretch of the imagination.

They've held a close eye to the abortive votes cast by lawmakers on teacher pay increase legislation and this year they're determined to do something about it—politically.

Those lawmakers who neglect to vote favorably on the teacher pay issue are due to be clapped on their political ears as teacher groups on the local level mount drives in favor of opposition candidates.

In fact this strategy has gone so far, even at this point prior to the April 23 primary, that in some instances where there is no primary opposition to re-election-seeking lawmakers opposed by PSEA, write-in sticker campaigns are being considered.

This may indeed be the year of the presidential but the protective umbrella of yesterday is expected to have some holes in it insofar as many a legislative candidate is concerned.

Average Penelec Residential Customer Used 7.3% More Electricity in 1967

Increased sales, revenues and net income for last year were reported by Pennsylvania Electric Company in its 1967 annual report mailed this week to its security holders.

Penelec President Ralph F. Bovier, in reviewing last year's financial report and other highlights, said the "1967 results reflect the achievement of high level sales gains and economies in operation despite several adverse cost factors."

The company serves a population of about a million and a half in northern, south central and west central Pennsylvania, about one third of the state's land area, and is an operating subsidiary of General Public Utilities Corporation, a utility holding company which owns all of Penelec's common stock. Penelec's preferred stock, debentures and mortgage bonds are owned by individuals, insurance companies, investment funds, banks and other institutional investors.

Total operating revenues last year were $109.7 million, 6.7 per cent over 1966, reflecting increased sales of electricity to all customer groups and reflecting, for the first time, payments received from other utilities for use of Penelec's portion of the new 500,000-volt Keystone transmission system.

Growth in kilowatt-hour sales from commercial and residential customer groups represented the best results in the past decade, in part due to the growing acceptance of "year-round electric space conditioning." The average residential customer used 4,791 kilowatt-hours last year, up 7.3 per cent from 1966 consumption, but his average bill for the increased power use was up only 4.9 per cent.

Bovier reported that complete electric house heating was installed in 1,822 residences during 1967 and at year-end there were almost 8,000 "total electric homes" on the Penelec System. He noted that electric heat was installed in 39 per cent of all new homes and in over a third of all new commercial buildings completed last year in the company's service area and, he said, "we posted new highs in the number of existing homes and businesses converted to electric heating."

Market Stages One Of Biggest Rallies

NEW YORK (AP) — Enthusiasm over progress towards peace talks with North Vietnam outweighed extreme caution over nationwide outbreaks of civil disorder and the stock market Monday staged one of its biggest rallies of the year.

The Dow Jones industrial average climbed 18.61 points to 884.42, bringing it to its highest level since it closed at 887.14 on Jan. 14.

Volume was 13.02 million shares compared with 12.56 million Friday.

The ticker tape was three minutes late at the closing bell as growing aggressiveness by investors pushed the list to its highest level of the day.

Much of the credit for the late wave of buying was credited to President Johnson's disclosure that the United States is working out a time and place for Vietnam peace talks.

Meanwhile, the major exchanges and many companies, banks and stores announced they would close Tuesday for Dr. Martin Luther King's funeral.

Of 1,515 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 1,063 rose and 273 fell. New highs for the year totaled 126 and new lows 29.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 4.9 to 315.7, with industrials up 9.1, rails up 2.6, and utilities up .6.

Glamour stocks in the higher-priced bracket made multiple-point gains. Blue chips also forged ahead.

Everyone of the 15 most active stocks advanced. Spartan industries, up 1½ at 22 on 302, 300 shares, was the most-active stock.

Twenty-six of the 30 stocks in the Dow Jones industrial average advanced, three were unchanged and International Harvester eased ½.

The New York Stock Exchange index rose 87 cents to $52.71.

Prices rose on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 4.53 million shares compared with 4.21 million Friday.

"COMFORT AND CONVENIENCE"

TODAY'S HOME owners and interior designers have one major problem which didn't exist in the last generation. That is — where do you place the television set to best advantage?

Some decorators happily consign the TV set to the family room, if there is one, or out of the way in a den. But as often as not, the set has to be in the living room, conveniently placed for family viewing.

Portables and table model sets will fit nicely onto one end of a long table — balanced perhaps by a lamp at the other end. Consoles must where there is wall space, or into a corner.

If you're buying a television set, bear in mind its probable location — and your family's viewing habits — before you choose your set. Plan the location so that the usual number of viewers in your home will each have a good view, but don't let the TV set dominate the entire room and distort proper balance in furnishings.

Remember, every chair doesn't have to face the set. Lightweight pull-up chairs, and swivel chairs, are only two ways your living room can switch in seconds from television to welcoming visitors.

We'll gladly help you work out furniture arrangement and selection. Come in — bring your room plan — and let's discuss your problems.

ANOTHER VERSION OF THE EASTER TREE DECORATING idea . . . or for any one of numerous occasions for that matter . . . has been suggested by a company, which of course does keep a sharp eye out for business and the marketing of its product, which is electric tree lights, who thinks that you should put to use all those stored Christmas tree lights on three national occasions besides Christmas: Decoration Day, Fourth of July and Thanksgiving Day; also, of course, on warm summer nights they can be used to create a softly lighted romantic atmosphere in the garden area while guests are enjoying the informality of a barbecue, or any other kind of out of doors dinner. The company tells you to hurry and YOU can be the first in your neighborhood to entertain so dazzlingly.

The latter part of March also saw Mr. and Mrs. Carl Malm of Tiona exploring its many jungle paths and enjoying its huge Royal Palms and birds of many brilliant hues, including the beautiful pink flamingos.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've read your column long enough to know how you feel about men hitting women—even in self defense. I also know you are a sensible person who realizes there are exceptions to every rule. I hope you will tell me I am an exception because I intend to keep hitting my wife and I'd like to do so with your approval.

Eighteen months ago I married a spoiled brat. She slept till noon and then went out and had lunch with her girl friends. When I'd come home to dinner the bed wasn't made and the breakfast dishes were still in the sink. Also, there was no dinner. She decided it was dumb to cook because the cooks in the restaurants were better than she was. There was never any food in the house. A mouse would have starved to death.

Finally I got mad and went to her father and told him my problem. He said it was my fault for putting up with it and added, with a wink, "The way to get a spoiled brat in line is to slap her around a little."

I took his advice and it worked wonders. No more back talk, no more loafing around and goofing off. The house looks fine and the meals aren't great but she is trying to improve. I'd appreciate your comments.—MASTER AT LAST

DEAR MASTER: So you slap your wife around and now everything is just lovely at your house? What do you want from me—a gold medal?

Just because you married an immature girl who responds to a child's punishment, doesn't mean it is right, or even acceptable. I hope you recognize the fact that your wife has a loose connection in the attic. Furthermore, she may be your obedient slave at the moment but don't be surprised if one day her hostility manifests itself in some mighty strange ways.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: If I am being a petty jerk please say so and I'll mend my ways. Something tells me there's more involved here than just the dough. How about a fast answer? I worked in an office and there are a goodly number of nice chicks around, but one in particular caught my eye five months ago. Suzy and I have gone out together several times and I like her, but she has one minor fault. She keeps borrowing small amounts—like coffee money, or cigaret money, or $1 for an office collection, or cab fare when she forgets her coin purse. She never pays me back.

In the last three months (I kept track) Suzy has nicked me for $22. This won't break me, Ann, and if you say forget it I will, but sometimes I think I am being taken for a sucker and I don't like the feeling. Should I say something and risk losing her friendship?—BENT BUT NOT BUSTED

DEAR BENT: People who borrow money and make no effort to repay it display a serious character deficiency—so don't write it off as "forgetfulness" or nothing to be concerned about.

The next time Suzy tries to float a small loan tell her she already owes you $22 and you'd appreciate it if she would make an attempt to pay it back. If you lose her account—I mean her friendship—it won't be much of a tragedy.

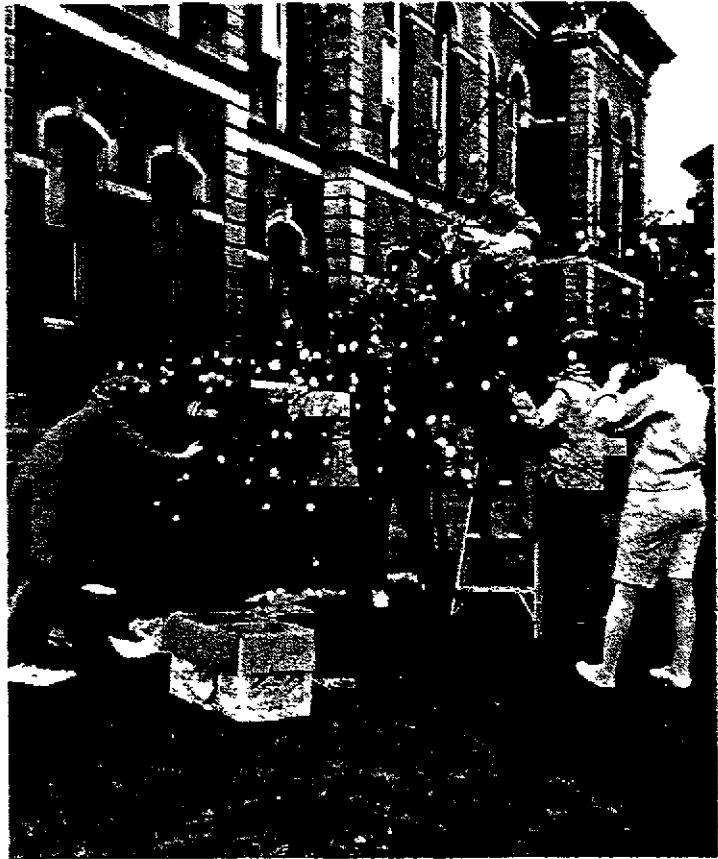

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Garden Club Members Prepare Special Easter Tree

An Easter tree is blooming on the lawn of the Warren County Courthouse. This gaily decorated tree has been done by Warren Garden Club with the assistance of Mrs. Don Valentine, Mrs. Valentine and her daughter, Mrs. James Hoskinson, have also decorated an Easter Tree at the Hoskinson residence, 315 Jackson street.

The Easter Tree is a unique feature of the Easter season. This custom of decorating evergreens or leafless trees with colored eggs, a novelty among the Pennsylvania Dutch, had its origin, in this country, in the years following the Civil War. The custom is fairly common in Germany, where the eggshells are gilded, filled with candy and then suspended from the tree by ribbons. The decorated trees are often used in spring festival parades.

Natives of the Virgin Islands have observed the custom of placing decorated eggshells on the spiny stems of yucca plants for a long time.

Chairmen of arrangements have been Mrs. John Shaffer and Mrs. Ted Grisez with Mrs.

Richard Smith, Mrs. R. Pierson Eaton, Mrs. Eugene Fring, Mrs. Donald Miller, along with all members of Warren Garden Club helping to decorate.

The Easter Tree, hung with hundreds of beautifully colored eggs, will be lighted at night—and Warren Garden Club hopes all the children and in fact everyone will enjoy this addition to the Easter observance.

Newcomers Ask 'Where, O Where Has My Diet Gone?'

"Where oh Where has my little diet gone?"—could have been the theme for the Welcome Wagons Newcomers Club meeting held at the Pennsylvania Electric Company April 4. Evelyn Overturf, home economist for the company, demonstrated, with ease, her skill in the kitchen by preparing numerous delightful dishes. Among these were: crabmeat casserole, blender salad, shrimp mousse and vegetable medley. The recipes for these and other dishes were distributed to the members of the club.

The following were the fortunate recipients of the finished dishes: Martha Baker, Linda Fox, Birgitte DeLong, Sally Irwin and one of the evening guests Mrs. Harold Fields.

The cooking demonstration was followed by Mrs. Kenneth Stratton, President of the League of Women Voters, who urged all eligible voters to do so on April 23rd at the Primary Election. She explained and reviewed in detail the proposals to Legislative Apportionment, Taxation, State Finance, Local Government and the Judiciary which will appear on the ballot as five questions. It was an enlightening discussion.

A delicious dessert was served to the club and a regular meeting was then held.

Everyone was reminded of Newcomers Club Convention to be held May 1st in Meadville. The Convention will begin at 9:30 a.m. and finish with a dinner at 5:00 p.m. The cost per member is $7. If enough members plan to attend a bus will be rented, however, this will mean an additional $5.00 per person. Please call June Lightner for reservations. (723-1832).

Committee reports reminded members that dues must be paid by April 11th or names will not

Blue Stocking Club Entertained

Mrs. L. W. Hull entertained members of the Blue Stocking Club at her home recently. Vice president Mrs. Norman Johnson presided.

Mrs. John Lange of the program committee introduced Mrs. Arthur Lydell who read poems and sonnets appropriate to the Easter season.

Mrs. Harriett Wilkins and Mrs. Lee Thompson presided at the refreshment table.

Gas flame can bring cold into life. The magic of natural gas brings air conditioning down to earth. At a low, low cost . . . gas is the only way you can have total air conditioning in your home. Change nature's laws with the cooling blue flame.

Quiet now! Listen! Your breathing in your home is louder than the new gas air conditioner.

You're forewarned against summer heat. Forearm yourself with the cold you can call forth from a new gas air conditioner. Thinking of air conditioners? Then think of this—Who ever heard of a gas flame wearing out?

New gas ideas will make a big difference . . . join the environmentalists and "Have a great day!"

Philomel And Mozart Clubs Enjoy 'Folk Music' Program

Members of the Jamestown Mozart Club chose "Folk Music" as the theme of the exchange recital they presented on Wednesday afternoon in Warren. The meeting was hosted by the Philomel Club of Warren in the Woman's Club.

The Philomel president, Mrs. Charles Eaton, welcomed the Jamestown group and introduced their president, Mrs. Wilford Perlee. Mrs. Perlee briefly responded by expressing the pleasure and appreciation of those attending from Jamestown, and referred to a printed program, dated January 26, 1926, making mention of the exchange of programs between the two music groups. The program referred to, now on file in the Mozart records, also lists the name of Mrs. Harry Baldwin, mother of Mrs. Joseph DeFrees, as librarian of the Mozart Club in that year.

Introduced by Mrs. M. B. Franks, chairman of the day's program, Mrs. Robert Bargar spoke on "Folk Music". She defined the ballad as a popular short narrative poem in stanza form of unknown authorship which tells a legendary event and passes from one generation to another.

Illustrating the theme, Mrs. Gordon Simms played her own guitar accompaniment and sang "The Great Silky of Sile Skerry", "The Three Claws", and "Old Bangum".

Mrs. Dorothy Eddy and Mrs. Russell Johnson played "Juba Dance" by Nathaniel Dett and "Spoon River" by Percy Grainger.

To conclude the program, Mrs. Herbert Lind directed the Mozart chorus in "Gloria in Excelsis", an American Folk Song Mass, composed by the Reverend Ian Douglas Mitchell; "Michael, Row the Boat," adapted by Lou Hayward; "Black Is the Color of My True Love's Hair" by John Jacob Niles; and "Lollytoddum" by Leslie Bell. Mrs. Jeffrey Broadhead was piano accompanist. Participants in this group of songs wore humorous early American costumes.

About one hundred members and guests were present for the social hour following the program. Mrs. Glenn Werner was hostess chairman and her committee included Mrs. David Anderson, Mrs. Alyson Bean, Mrs. Benjamin Connolly, Mrs. E. N. Greenwood, Mrs. Harry Segel, Mrs. Melvin Keller, Mrs. Harry Logan, Mrs. James Nor-dine, and Mrs. Richard Smith. Mrs. W. B. Africa and Mrs. Paul Harrington presided at the tea table. An arrangement of daisies, heather, and Hawaiian pine centered the table, and lighted oil lamps and miniature guitars completed the decoration. The smaller tables displayed oil lamps, cornucopias, red tablecloths, miniature musical instruments, and music books as features of "Folk Music" decorations.

The bidding:
1♠ Pass North East
2♠ Pass 3♦ Pass
3♥ Pass 4♣ Pass
4♥ Pass 5♣ Pass

Opening lead: Six of ♣. When South opened the bidding with one spade, North's hand became worth 19 points in support and he flashed an immediate slam signal by making the jump shift response of three diamonds.

South temporized by rebidding three spades and when his partner showed support by raising on the next round, he made a slam try by cue bidding the ace of hearts. Reassured concerning the only suit in which he lacked a control himself, North proceeded without further ado to six spades.

West opened the six of clubs and dummy won the trick with the lone ace. A spade to the ace cleared up the trump situation when both opponents followed suit.

Declarer was confronted with potential losers in hearts and diamonds, but he observed that, if the outstanding diamonds were divided three-three—then the long diamond in dummy would provide the needed discard for his bad heart.

To put his conclusions to a quick test, South led the ace, king and another diamond. West showed out on the third diamond, however, and East exited with the queen of that suit. When the queen of hearts did not drop under the ace, king subsequently—declarer was obliged to concede defeat on the deal.

South did not give himself the best chance, because his reasoning fell somewhat short. Success didn't hinge entirely on an even diamond break. Declarer has a chance to execute either an end play or a squeeze, provided that the outstanding strength in the red suits is concentrated in one hand. South can avail himself of every opportunity provided that he does not surrender control of the diamond suit.

After trumps are drawn ending in dummy, it is suggested declarer lead a small diamond away from the ace, king. East must play the jack in order to prevent South from winning a trick with the ten. Any return that East makes at this point will present declarer with his 12th trick. Observe that East is—in fact—endplayed in three different suits.

The recommended line of play retains the prospect for finding a favorable diamond division, while at the same time expanding declarer's opportunities. If all else fails, South may still win the hand via a squeeze provided that the same defender has the outstanding strength in hearts as well as four diamonds.

Your Horoscope By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is according to the stars. FOR TUESDAY, APRIL 9, 1968.

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—A generous Mars now stimulates your initiative and ambitions. Gains indicated through new enterprises, properly handled dealings with superiors, others in authority.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—Venus, favorable, now promises increasing gains for you, too. But some minor situations may have to be ironed out before you go ahead with long-range projects. Art and educational interests especially favored.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Dig in with all your skills to make this day very worthwhile. Keep "first" interests first, not mixing duties with pleasures injudiciously. Accept unexpected changes philosophically.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—You may encounter what seems to be undue opposition. Take whatever steps are necessary—diplomatically, of course—to overcome it, but do not mistake serious inquiry or honest discussion for hostility.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—This should be a most profitable day for those who make the best use of their talents—especially the Leoite's gift for salesmanship—and who emphasize amiability in all contacts.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—A better day than you may suppose at first, but your cooperation will be needed if you would win its benefits. Some pleasant news in the making.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Best results will accrue from working with those who have know-how and inspiration to offer. You should make fine progress in all endeavors now.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 23)—If things don't seem to be going quite "as usual," ask questions. Some changes may have been made, some new procedure instituted of which you are not—but should be—aware.

SAGITTARIUS (November 24 to December 21)—Try to fathom the feelings and attitudes of associates as well as planning an efficient schedule, and you will know how to approach and carry on with day's activities.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Do not scatter energies and you will be able to do a dandy job with whatever is expected of you. Better-than-average planetary help.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Uranus, favorable, will help you to capitalize on your ideas instead of keeping them in the thought stage. An artistic touch, an efficient approach will pay off.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—A good day for making necessary changes; also for investigating the curious or unusual—which always interests the Piscean. Original ideas stimulated.

YOU BORN TODAY have a vibrant, warm personality, like to be with people, and achieve great happiness through your accomplishments. You are not happy in the mere winning, but winning in that which is worthwhile. Many statesmen, travelers, explorers, composers, writers, nurses, medical men and inventors of the unique were born under the Sign of Aries. Birthdate of: Charles Beaudelaire, Fr. poet; W. C. How to Keep Well By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

RESTLESS LIMBS
Restless limbs is a combination of peculiar sensations felt deep in the legs. The disorder occurs mainly at night but may develop during the day after sitting for some time in automobiles, theaters, lecture halls, watching TV, or playing cards. It is eased by movement of the extremities but the use of diazepam (Valium) before retiring is reported to be most effective.

The sensations develop in the legs most frequently between the knee and ankle. Other areas such as the arms, thighs, buttocks, and foot are not exempt. Discomfort usually is felt below the skin, in the muscles or bones. Many sufferers experience a creeping sensation; others, aching. Still others complain of burning or a cold, numbness.

The restlessness also may appear in the form of a heaviness or as "worms and ants crawling up and down the bones." Growing pains in children may be a variation of this malady. Relief is obtained by walking, stretching the legs, kicking, or marking time. Some apply heat and others cold. There are many remedies, but muscle relaxants such as Librium and Valium work best. Aspirin, antihistamines, vasodilators, sedatives, and vitamins have been used with little success.

The restless legs syndrome may be masked by co-existing organic diseases such as arthritis, diabetic neuropathy, and anemia. Now and then the condition is aggravated or initiated by pregnancy. Heredity plays a role, because many victims have relatives with the same affliction.

Some are embarrassed by the involuntary flidgeting.

TYPES OF HEPATITIS
O.K. writes: Is there more than one kind of hepatitis?

REPLY
Yes. Viral hepatitis is the most common type of liver infection. Other organisms also invade the liver, including those causing amebic dysentery, brucellosis, and Weil's disease. Toxic hepatitis stems from exposure to various chemicals such as phosphorus, arsenic, and cleaning solutions. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on liver disorders.

X-RAY FOR BLACK STOOLS
C.M.C. writes: What would cause the stools to be completely black when no foods have been eaten that would cause the discoloration?

REPLY
Black stools usually indicate bleeding from the stomach or small intestine. The red color of blood turns black when mixed with the stomach acids. You should have an X-ray.

ACID IN ORANGES
Mrs. P. writes: Please tell me if there is acid in oranges. A friend refuses to eat them because she says oranges contain acid. I was always under the impression that there was no acid in this fruit.

REPLY
Yes, citric acid. Tell your friend that the acids in the stomach are many times stronger than those in oranges.

it's the little things that make gas heat so great!

The cost, for instance.

There are a lot of great things about Gas heat.
 You take them for granted. Clean, circulating, whole-house heat seems as natural as... fresh air. But the biggest thing about Gas heat is the littleness of the cost—about one-third the cost of electric heat. Maybe the cost of heating your home with Gas doesn't seem like such a big thing to you.

That's because it isn't.

THINK OF ALL THE THINGS YOU CAN DO WITH THE MONEY YOU SAVE. GAS MAKES THE BIG DIFFERENCE.

What would your wife say if you came home with an Olds tonight?

You've probably been talking new cars. So it's mainly the fact that it's an Olds she'll be reacting to,
 right? So...
 If she's the practical type,
 she'll blow a gasket.
 Because she thinks an Olds is more car than you were planning to buy.

You'll have to talk fast and make the point that this Cutlass cost less than many of the low-priced
 "names" you looked at.
 Now, if she's the emotional type she won't care about details. She'll take one look at Cutlass and kiss you. Then she'll look at that plush Cutlass interior, and kiss you again.

 Either way, you'll be a hero tonight.

Eisenhower Thinclads Win Opener 100 to 50

By DAN PRATZ
LANDER — The Eisenhower cindermen triumphed here last night by routing Ridgway 100-50 in their season opener as windy gales swept the Ike oval hindering many of the events.

Checking Mr. Webster "a gale" is defined as "a wind of from 32 to 63 miles per hour", and that speed seems just about right as the gusts that swept the Eisenhower track carried the hurdles right along with it in the opening event.

IKE'S STAR VAULTER
Gary Dalrymple, pole vaulter for Eisenhower, appeared to be good state material at yesterday's opening meet of the season. The Knights and Ridgway, Dalrymple, only a junior, vaulted to a height of 12-feet 3-inches, only three inches short of the District X, Class B mark. The state record for Class B stands at 13-feet 5 3/4-inches. (Photo by Pratz)

Despite the wind disadvantage, many of the Knights performed well. The squad put together 12 first places, 11 second, and seven third places for their 100 point total.

The Blue and Gold only managed to sweep one event, the 180 yard low hurdles, but did not win the 880, mile and two mile relays.

Ike's star of the day was Dave Burnett, a triple winner in the meet, taking first in the 120 yard high hurdles in 16.3, the 180 yard low hurdles in 22.8 and breaking the school triple jump mark (which he held at 38-feet 5 3/4 inches), leaping to a distance of 40-feet 5-inches.

Pole vaulters for Ike had an excellent day as Gary Dalrymple took first and Jamie Nesmith second. Nesmith, a freshman, broke the junior high record held by Dalrymple at 10-feet, climbing to a height of 10-feet 3-inches.

Dalrymple also astounded fans as he won the event with a vault of 12-feet 3-inches. Only a junior, he holds the indoor mark at 11-feet 3/4-inches. His best outdoor height in the past was 11-feet.

Senior Dick Hale secured a first in the 440 with a time of 58.4, a second in the long jump with a distance of 18-feet 8-inches, 1/2 inch short of the winning jump, and ran a leg in the victorious mile relay.

Martin Hoffner also took three places for Ike, winning the shot put with a throw of 42-feet 10-inches and the high jump with a leap of 5-feet 7-inches. Hoffner also took a second place in the discus.

Brothers Earl and Carl Park carried most of the load for the Ridgway Elkers. Earl captured a first in the 100 yard dash with a time of 10.25 and a first in the 220 yard dash with a time of 22.3. Brother Carl threw for first place in the discus, hurling the plate 119-feet 13 1/2-inches, and took first place in the javelin with a throw of 163-feet.

The two-mile run was captured by Eisenhower's Jeff Lindell in a sprint for the finish with a time of 11:41.1. Ike also captured honors in the 880 with Tom Engstrom's victory time of 2:12.9.

The only other first places for the Elkers were in the mile run and long jump. Doug Jones captured the mile with a time of 5:15.4 and Jim Gardner made the winning long jump of 18-feet 8 1/2-inches.

Coach Denny Engstrom had nothing but praise for every boy who competed.

With their job well-done for the first meet, the Knights take a rest until April 20 when they compete at the Indiana State University Invitational Meet in Indiana, Pa.

TOUCH AND GO FOR SOME TEAMS All Major League Baseball Openers Slated For Wednesday

The Los Angeles Dodgers' decision to postpone tonight's game has averted the chance of a forfeit and sets up a new Wednesday opening schedule for baseball's major leagues.

Monday's special openers and today's schedule were set back out of respect to the memory of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., slain civil rights leader.

Washington was to have played Monday with Minnesota as the visiting team in the usual presidential opener. Cincinnati was to have opened at home against the Chicago Cubs and Houston was to have played Pittsburgh under the lights at the Astrodome.

Dr. King's death resulted in the postponement of the Monday games and the entire slate of today's other openers.

It still is touch and go as to whether some of the games will be played Wednesday in cities that have been torn by riots.

Civil disorders have taken two players out of the lineup of the Baltimore Orioles and raised some doubt about Wednesday's afternoon game at home against the Oakland Athletics. There has been rioting in Baltimore for three days.

Mark Belanger, the young shortstop who was to take the place of Luis Aparicio, was called up by the Maryland Air National Guard Monday. Pete Richert, a left-handed pitcher, had been called up earlier by the District of Columbia National Guard.

The loss of Belanger is expected to result in shifting Dave Johnson from second to short. Don Buford, ex-White Sox, will play second. It is to be Tom Phoebus for the Orioles against Jim Hunter of Oakland. Early estimates call for 30,000 fans.

Washington, which has been torn by riots, hopes to open Wednesday with Camilo Pascual going for the Senators against Dean Chance of the Minnesota Twins. President Johnson is not expected to attend. Original estimates called for a crowd of 45,000.

The defending champion Boston Red Sox, shaken by the loss of Tony Conigliaro, will be at Detroit where they will send Dick Ellsworth against Earl Wilson.

Chicago has rescheduled its Comiskey Park opener for Wednesday afternoon when it will be Sonny Siebert for Cleveland against Gary Peters of the White Sox. Hopefully 25,000 will attend.

In the other American League openers, also a day game, the New York Yankees will meet the California Angels at Yankee Stadium before 15,000. Manager Ralph Houk will start two rookies, catcher Frank Fernandez and third baseman Mike Ferraro, behind Mel Stottlemyre against the Angels' lefty George Brunet.

Cincinnati's special opener now has become just one of many on the Wednesday chart, but the usual special ceremonies are planned.

Milt Pappas will work for the Reds against Joe Niekro of the Cubs who will be without their regular second baseman Glenn Beckert, away on military duty. Jose Arcia, drafted from St. Louis, will play second.

Bob Gibson will try to get the world champion St. Louis Cardinals off to a running start Wednesday night against Pat Jarvis and the Atlanta Braves at St. Louis. The Cards leave over the weekend that a tender arm will cost Dick Hughes his first pitching start.

Philadelphia, which had decided it would not play the Dodgers Tuesday night even if it meant the first big league forfeit since 1954, will pitch Chris Short in the Wednesday game against the Dodgers' Claude Osteen.

San Francisco, claiming to have the best team since the Giant pennant winners of 1964, opens in a day game against the New York Mets. It will be Juan Marichal for the Giants and Tom Seaver for the Mets.

Houston's fuzzy-cheeked kids will be at home in the Astrodome in a Wednesday night game with Larry Dierker going against Pittsburgh's Jim Bunning, the man who is supposed to lead the Pirates to a pennant.

Warren and Youngsville Open Track Season in Away Meets

By DAN PRATZ
The Warren Dragons and Youngsville Eagles will open their 1968 track season this afternoon as the Dragons journey to Bradford and the Eagles travel to Titusville. The Bradford meet is the first one scheduled for Warren, but Youngsville was slated to meet Corry last Friday, having the meet postponed because of the cold weather.

The Dragons have 13 returning lettermen, eight seniors and five juniors, in addition to several promising sophomore trackmen.

Taking the position of head coach over the Dragon thinclads will be Andy Randas, Randas has been assistant coach for many years and was named head track coach when former Coach Loyal Briggs submitted his resignation at the end of last season.

Assisting Randas in his duties will be John (Toby) Shea, Joel Beason and Tom Scarcella. Shea works with the sprinters and hurdlers while Beason concentrates on the jumpers and weightmen and Scarcella takes the helm at Beaty.

Among the 13 returning lettermen will be senior Dave Cobb star miler for the Dragons. Cobb ranked third in scoring points for the Blue and White last year.

Also announced Monday were cancellations of today's racing programs at Gulfstream Park in Hallandale, Fla., and Narragansett Park in Pawtucket, R.I., plus Monday night's card at Shenandoah Downs in Charles Town, W. Va.

Monday night's National Hockey League playoff games in St. Louis and Minnesota had previously been postponed, the Blues' game against Philadelphia until Wednesday night and the North Stars' meeting with Los Angeles until tonight.

Among the events held Monday were the final two rounds of the Greensboro Open Golf Tournament, an American Hockey League playoff game at Providence, R.I., an International Hockey League playoff game at Muskegon, Mich., and a number of thoroughbred and harness racing programs.

American Athletes Pay Homage to King

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
What had been scheduled to be a lively day in sports turned out to be relatively light Monday when American athletes continued to join hands in paying homage to the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Originally, the major league baseball season had been slated to open in Washington, Cincinnati and Houston. However, all three games plus seven other openers today were rescheduled for Wednesday in observance of the period of mourning for the slain civil rights leader.

The Los Angeles Dodgers joined the others Monday, postponing tonight's opener against Philadelphia until Wednesday night. The Phillies had said they would not play even at the risk of a forfeit and a fine.

DAVE COBB
Dan O'Neil, also a senior, will be running the 440 on the Dragon squad.

AFL 'All-Pro Linebacker' To Attend Sports Banquet

Dan Connors, the St. Marys High School product who last year was named to the American Football League All-League Team will attend the All-Sports Banquet at Warren Area High School Wednesday night.

Connors, a 1960 All-Stater from St. Marys Public, attended the University of Miami, Florida and in 1964 was named to the All-American Third Team as a tackle. While at Miami, the team played in the Liberty and Gotham Bowls and in his senior year he was chosen to play in the North-South and Senior Bowl games as well as the Coaches All-American game played that year in Buffalo.

He was named Most Valuable Lineman in the 1964 Senior Bowl Game. Connors was the second draft choice of the Oakland Raiders and the fourth choice of the rival league's Chicago Bears. He played in the 1966 American League All-Star game and then this past year the defensive co-captain paced his team to the AFL championship and earned for himself All-League honors as a linebacker.

Connors has been making many public appearances in the area and is a welcome addition to the Sports Night Banquet which will feature Penn State's head wrestling coach Bill Koll as its main speaker.

This banquet is not open to the public, only athletes and those directly connected with Warren High School sports may attend. Arrangements for speakers for this annual affair were made by the Warren Sports Boosters.

Otherwise, activity will be extremely limited until after the funeral of Dr. King in Atlanta today.

Previously announced were the cancellations of horse racing programs: Monday night at Yonkers Raceway in New York and Liberty Bell in Philadelphia plus today's cards at Aqueduct in New York and Batavia, N.Y., Downs, Hollywood Park set back its season opening from today to Wednesday.

In addition to the Los Angeles-Minnesota tilt, two other National Hockey League playoff games will be played tonight—Chicago at New York and Montreal at Boston.

The American Basketball Association playoffs continue the same night with New Orleans at Dallas, Pittsburgh is at Minnesota Wednesday.

The National Basketball Association playoffs resume Wednesday night with Philadelphia at Boston and San Francisco at Los Angeles.

The Youngsville Eagles will be fielding the same squad as planned for their meet with Corry. Coach Harvey Shapiro reported the postponement of the meet with the Beavers a disappointment, but spirits are high and the Eagles are ready.

Senior lettermen on the Eagles squad include Conrad Danielson, Phil Holcomb, George Nelson and Gary Wood. Danielson, made his mark in the 180 low hurdles, the high jump and the long jump.

Holcomb is the Eagles distance runner, slated to compete in the mile run today. Nelson runs both the high and low hurdles for the Eagles and also throws the javelin.

Speed on the Red and White team will come from Wood who runs the 100 and 440 yard dashes.

The Eagles competition is sure to be tough as the Rockets have a strong team back.

Both meets are scheduled to get underway promptly at 4 p.m.

Casper Comes on Strong, Wins Greensboro Open by 4 Strokes

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—Billy Casper surged back after dropping three strokes off the pace to shoot rounds of 69 and 66 for a 267 total Monday to win the Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament by four shots.

His 17-under-par performance equaled the event record set last year by George Archer, who tied for second with Gene Littler and Bobby Nichols.

Casper, a two-time U.S. Open champion, won top money of $27,500 in the $137,500 tournament. He brought his official earnings for the year to $50,119, second on the list. He also has just under $18,000 in " unofficial" cash.

Casper fell three shots back of Don January during the morning round, but a couple of January bogeys and a Casper birdie left them tied after 54 holes at 201.

The closing double-round day produced 30 under par rounds in the morning and 38 in the afternoon over the par 71 Sedgefield Country Club course, measuring 7,034 yards.

The day's best effort was a 32-31-63 in the afternoon by dapper Doug Sanders, equalling the tournament and course record set last year by John Schlee. However, PGA officials again permitted players to improve fairly lies over the course, which was swept by frequent rain last week and again briefly Monday during the late afternoon.

Sanders' 63 gave him a 273 total and a tie for fifth place with Arnold Palmer, a 66-67 finisher, and Al Geiberger, who shot 67-69.

January, faltering to a closing 73, tied at 274 with Gary Player and Miller Barber.

Archer and Nichols closed with 65s and Littler with 67 to gain their second-place tie, worth $11,229 apiece.

Clark's Body
Flown Home

FRANKFURT, Germany, (AP)—The body of former world driving champion Jim Clark was flown home to Scotland Monday night.

Clark was killed in a racing accident at Hockenheim Sunday. West German authorities released the body Monday after closing their investigation into the crash.

In releasing the body, chief State Attorney Wilhelm Angelberger said the official investigation of the accident at the Hockenheim ring showed no evidence that other persons were guilty in the death and no grounds for opening a case against a third party.

Angelberger said the question of whether the driver or a fault in the car had caused the accident was not within the state attorney's jurisdiction and had not been proved by his office.

Clark's fatal accident occurred during the season's first race for the European formula two drivers cup at the Hockenheim course near Mannheim. His Lotus Ford Cosworth skidded off the wet track on a gradual right curve, crashed through a guard fence, somersaulted and hit a tree.

The Chicago White Sox in 1967 won six more games than they had taken in 1966. They finished fourth each season.

Brewer Worried About Himself In Defense of Masters Title

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Gay Brewer Jr., says he is more worried about Gay Brewer Jr., than either Jack Nicklaus or Arnold Palmer as he prepares for defense of his Masters golf championship.

"You know, after winning last year, I seemed to lose my fire," the pug-nosed Dallas pro lamented Monday. "I haven't been able to concentrate. I haven't played well."

Brewer need not apologize. There was a general feeling of indifference as a handful of top pros prepared for the game's spring awakening over the lush acres of the Augusta National Club, starting Thursday.

Most of the touring pros were cleaning up their unfinished business in the Greater Greensboro Open. One hundred and seventy miles to the northwest, the world's notables were pouring into Atlanta for today's burial of Dr. Martin Luther King.

It seemed a bit ludicrous that 12 months ago people around here were excited because they feared Jack Nicklaus had the mumps.

Brewer, 36, who resembles a younger and leaner Babe Ruth, skipped the Greensboro tournament to practice for the Masters.

He's been around since Friday, shooting in the vicinity of Augusta National's par 72.

Brewer, who hasn't won a PGA event since his Masters victory, said he had hardly thought about the tournament during the last few weeks.

If he did, he added, he would have to choose Palmer and Nicklaus as favorites.

"Not that one of them will, but it's like rating race horses," he said. "Palmer is the all-time leading money winner. The course is made for Jack's game. Remember they've won seven of the last 10 times the tournament's been played."

County 4-H Building Planned; Atlas and Plabook Scheduled

A new project has been launched by 4-H Club leaders of Warren County. It is the construction of a 4-H building in the near future, to serve as a center for meetings and functions of 4-H clubs. It will be a cement block structure, tentatively planned to be 40 by 80 feet, with a stage and kitchen included in its facilities. A possible site is the Youngsville Warren County fairgrounds.

The proposed 4-H building was discussed by John Nordin, past president Warren County Agricultural Extension Association, at a meeting at the Warren Y.M.C.A. Thursday evening, April 4, 1968, attended by 4-H adult and teen leaders.

John Lyons of Russell, master of ceremonies, gave recognition to 75 4-H Club adult and teen-age leaders who have volunteered their help to this great national organization that serves both urban and rural communities for development of young people from 9 to 19. Special citation was given to Mrs. Ira Stutts, of Russell, by Alfred Akins, president Warren County Agricultural Extension Association, in recognition for her 20 years meritorious service as a volunteer 4-H club leader.

It was announced that officers and members of Warren County 4-H Development Committee are sponsoring publication of an atlas and plabook of Warren County property owners of over five acres of land. Proceeds from sale of advertising and the books will be devoted to construction of the new county 4-H building.

Business and other organizations and individuals interested in advertising space in the atlas can obtain information from any member of the 4-H Plabook committee: F. E. Wilcox — 757-8877; Diana Grant — 489-3439; Bruce Zeigler — 484-3483; Mary Kuzma — 665-0923. Deadline for advertising is Friday, April 26, 1968.

It is hoped the book will be published in time to be available in August at fair time, for all property owners, business and professional people, hunters, fishermen and vacationers, as well as feed, seed, fertilizer and equipment agencies and salesmen, schools and government agencies and officials.

Committee for 5 Yes Votes Plans 10-City Blitz

The "Committee for five yes votes" announced today a one-day ten-city, bi-partisan blitz designed to overcome voter apathy towards proposed amendments to Pennsylvania's antiquated Constitution.

In announcing that the "fly-around" would begin in Harrisburg early Monday morning, April 15, and take them to seven of the State's major airports, former Governors William W. Scranton and George M. Leader said:

"Experience has shown that in most primary elections nearly 60 per cent of the state's eligible voters of both major parties fail to visit the polls to vote.

"This means that on Tuesday, April 23, nearly three and one-half million of Pennsylvania's five and a half million voters will not participate in one of the most important decisions of their lives—the question of whether or not the Commonwealth will soon have a new, modern Constitution.

"It is entirely possible that, once these voters become aware of the necessity of casting five "Yes" votes on the Constitutional Amendments which will be on the ballot this year, they will make it a point to make approval of the work of the recently concluded Constitutional Convention their first order of business on election day.

"For that reason, we as co-chairmen of the 'Committee for five yes votes' have decided upon the same kind of bi-partisan blitz that was so effective in winning approval last fall of eight other Constitutional amendments as well as the holding of the Convention itself.

The two governors are scheduled to kick off the day-long flight with a brief ceremony and press conference in the rotunda of the State Capitol Building in Harrisburg at 8:45 a.m.

Leaving Harrisburg - York

Tidioute Man Is Charged With Larceny

ERIE—A Tidioute man was charged by Erie city detectives Saturday with larceny by an employee, forgery and false pretenses in connection with several local incidents.

The suspect, Dennis Schall, 21, of RD 2, Tidioute, is being held in Warren County jail after bond was reportedly revoked.

Det. Sgts. Frank Schwartz and Raymond Sokolowski went to Warren Saturday where they read the warrant to Schall.

Police said the charges stem from recent incidents involving forgery and theft in the Erie area. According to Det. Capt. Mario Bagnoni, two different identification cards and three credit cards, all belonging to Electroweld Co. of Erie were found on the suspect.

Bagnoni said one identification card was that for an Erie man and the other a United States Armed Forces I.D. He accused Schall of cashing bogus checks at the Security Peoples Trust Co., Boston Store and the Union Bank Drive-in.

Gov. Shafer Discusses Piu Hill District

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gov. Shafer flew into Pittsburgh Monday to tour the city's Hill District, plagued by violence and looting during the weekend, but the chief executive cancelled the tour on the advice of police and National Guard officials.

Shafer met for nearly an hour with officials at Pittsburgh's Civic Arena, on the fringe of the troubled Hill.

Telegrams Urge Civil Rights Passage

WASHINGTON (AP) — "It's fantastic," Rep. Frank M. Clark D-Pa., said Monday. "This morning's mail has been running almost 100 per cent against the open housing bill."

He was among Pennsylvania congressmen queried on the immediate response of constituents to a weekend of looting and violence in cities across the nation.

But Clark's correspondence, most in the form of individually-written letters, wasn't typical. Many other congressmen received a barrage of telegrams urging support of the Senate-passed civil rights bill—now in the House rules committee—as a memorial to the slain Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Many of these were sent shortly after King was killed by a sniper's bullet Thursday in Memphis, Tenn., and arrived in Washington even as widespread looting and burning were erupting here.

"Wait until Tuesday or Wednesday," said one congressional aide who asked that his name not be used. "That's when you'll start getting your white backlash mail."

Some of the backlash already was hitting the office of Republican Rep. James G. Fulton, who has supported civil rights legislation in the past and promised continued support in the future.

Initial telegrams received by Fulton favored passage of the civil rights bill. Letters opened later Monday ran "very much against the bill," according to a Fulton aide.

In Democratic Rep. William J. Green's office, the correspondence on the measure was light and of mixed opinion.

Rep. William S. Moorhead's mailbag brought a smattering of telegrams to the 14th district Democrat's office, most of them favoring the civil rights bill.

One telegram, sent Saturday by western Pennsylvania citizens for McCarthy, urged passage of the bill as "the very least we can do" to honor King's memory.

Republican Rep. Richard S. Schweiker, whose mail previously has been running about 2-1 against open housing, received at least 50 telegrams over the weekend urging him to support the civil rights bill. "King's murder deserves immediate response. Please urge passage of the civil rights bill," said one woman's message.
